"More IP is being filed and moved across borders than ever before as innovation, tech and digitalization increasingly drive global economic growth. But this also means that there has been a big increase in national and cross-border IP disputes.

ADR offers a fast and confidential option for resolving disputes, and in a way that helps maintain the business relationship. All these are especially critical for disputes involving technology and innovation, which often requires international collaboration. WIPO reiterates our commitment to working with all to enable innovators to achieve their potential."

"IP is the currency of innovation. When IP disputes arise, they can disrupt development, stifle creativity, and impede economic growth. Effective IP dispute resolution is therefore vital to ensuring progress.

Singapore provides a trusted and neutral forum for businesses and creators to resolve their IP disputes. We offer a full suite of dispute resolution services, a progressive IP and international dispute resolution framework based on the rule of law, and a deep bench of global IP experts.

Our vision is to foster an environment where ideas flourish and disputes are resolved effectively, so that businesses and creators can operate and thrive in a fair and predictable environment."

"With the breakneck speed of technological advancement, strategic IP management and dispute resolution will require not just agility, but foresight.

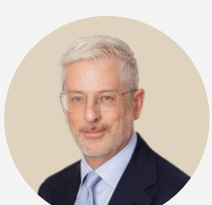

Policymakers, practitioners, and businesses should keep pace with tech and legal developments, as well as develop the acumen and cultural fluency that can move them from bystanders to solution drivers."

"Artificial Intelligence disputes are very well-suited to resolution through alternative dispute resolution, including arbitration and mediation.

AI disputes inherently involve novel issues of IP law, complex factual backdrops, and requirements for fast, confidential, and nuanced resolutions. All of these requirements are hallmarks of ADR."
