Civility and Wellbeing in the Legal Profession (Ethics) – Civility is a code of conduct by which attorneys, as officers of the court, must adhere to in the legal profession. Courts, state bars, and bar associations have rules governing professionalism, integrity, and honesty in the practice of law. But what happens when vigorous representation crosses the line of civility? How does the lack of civility in advocacy affect the well-being of lawyers, PTO officials, and the judiciary? This esteemed panel will discuss these topics and others, including possible causes and justifications for perceived “uncivil” behavior, sanctions, how experience and mentorship may build a culture of civility and trust, and how to respond to uncivil or unprofessional conduct. The panelists will also address challenges attorneys face in balancing their work demands with their wellness and provide tips for fostering wellbeing.
